FOUGHT IN MEXICAN WAR.

Galen C. Maxham of Northfield Was 84 Years Old Yesterday.

Northfield, Feb. 26.—Galen C. Maxham, the only surviving veteran in this town who fought through the Mexican war, yesterday reached his 84th birthday. Mr. Maxham made no special celebration of the event. Last Friday, however, he went to East Roxbury to attend a birthday party given in the schoolhouse in the village in honor of the 84th birthday anniversary of Deacon J. T. Edson of that town. Mr. Maxham entered into the festivities with all the zest and good will of youth and thoroughly enjoyed himself, while, jointly with Deacon Edson he received the congratulations and best wishes of scores of those present.

Mr. Maxham was born in Middleboro, Mass., being one of a family of 10 children. At the age of 5 years he was taken by his parents to Hannum, and lived in that town until he was 25 years of age. At the outbreak of the Mexican war he enlisted in the 9th Infantry, sometimes called the New England regiment, and known throughout the war as the "Bloods." This regiment, which was commanded by Col. Truman B. Russell, was organized at Newport, R. I.

The 9th participated in all the battles of the valley of Mexico, Contreras, Churubusco, Molino del Rey, Chapultepec, and at the gates of the city, where it supported a battery. The regiment was disbanded at Newport, R. I., Aug. 21, 1848.

From 1848 to 1855 Mr. Maxham worked a large part of the time in a boat shop at Stoughton, Mass. He took three ocean voyages as an ordinary seaman. He was married at Bethel in 1855 to Susan Brown of Hannum. Mr. and Mrs. Maxham made Bethel their home for the next six years, coming in 1861 to Northfield, where they have since resided. For 40 years he dealt in poultry and produce. Now he is actively engaged in handling hides and skins.

Mr. Maxham, in spite of his long life of varied activities and experiences, is a hale veteran, enjoying the best of health and unimpaired mental vigor. Two years ago he celebrated his 82nd birthday by walking to Montpelier, a distance of 19 miles, to call upon his former army associate and long-time friend, Richard Dodge.

WILL BE GUESTS OF NEW ORLEANS

Good Time at the Carnival in Store for Mr. and Mrs. Longworth.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—A despatch to the Inter Ocean from New Orleans says: Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth will be the guests of the city of New Orleans during the carnival season, according to the information received Friday by the Morgan Steamship company officials. The officers of the steamer Excelsior, which arrived from Havana, say that all arrangements have been made at the company's Havana office to book passage for Mr. and Mrs. Longworth on the Morgan liner Prince Arthur, which was to sail from there Saturday night and which will reach New Orleans Sunday. If the ship be on time the entrance of the city will be delayed for a short time in order that the ship carrying the president's daughter and her husband may join in the procession up the river.

Mrs. Longworth will arrive at New Orleans in time to attend the ball of the Knights of Pythias tonight and will be one of the guests of honor. If present plans are carried out, she will witness the grand parade of Rex from one of the galleries of the clubs. On Thursday night she will be the guest of the Comus society and of the Rex ball.

LYNCHING IN LOUISIANA.

Negro Suspected of Attempting to Assault Young Girl Shot to Death.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 26.—A mob of 500 men Saturday shot to death Wilton Page, a negro, aged 30 years, and afterward burned the body near Bienville. The negro was captured during Friday night. He was suspected of being the one who attempted to assault Sarah Cant, 14-year-old girl, Friday. Page was identified by the girl, and when a deputy sheriff started to jail with Page a mob overpowered the officer and took the negro. He was taken to the scene of the attack on the girl, where, it is said, he made a confession. The mob then stood him up against a tree and shot him to death, riddling his body with bullets. More than 500 shots were fired. After the shooting a fire was kindled around the body and the mob remained until it had been cremated. A military company ordered by Governor Blanchard from Homer, Louisiana, reached the scene after the lynching. When they arrived the mob had dispersed.

ROYALTY REJOICES.

Stork Now Expected to Visit German Crown Princess.

New York, Feb. 26.—The world, in a copyright cable from Berlin, says: Joy has returned to the imperial household with the announcement that the stork, after all, will certainly visit the crown princess some time next summer.

The specialist, whose pessimistic report recently plunged the court into the deepest melancholy, endeavored to justify himself before a meeting of Berlin embryologists, and they decided that the scientific aspects of the case as demonstrated by him were most remarkable and apparently warranted his conclusion that she could not become a mother.

BILL GOES TO THE KAISER.

Uncle Approves Reciprocal Tariff to United States.

Berlin, Feb. 26.—The foreign council Saturday approved the Reich action in passing the bill providing for the extension of reciprocal tariff rates to the United States until June 30, 1907, and sent it to the emperor for his signature.

RATE BILL SITUATION

The President Appears To Have Best

OF THE SITUATION

A Fighting Nucleus Remains to Contest for the Conservative Republican Measure—Pension Day in the House.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The correspondent of the Springfield, Mass., Republican reviews the rate bill situation in the despatch to his paper:

Friday's sensational railroad rate melodrama remains the one topic of conversation. At the capitol and elsewhere the lawmakers gather the new situation and the new political alignment are all that is talked of. No further developments of a definite nature have taken place, but the passage of 24 hours has given an opportunity to understand the situation more fully. The democrats held no formal conference yesterday, neither did the republicans. Senator Chapp and Senator Dilliver are in high feather and have been to see the president, which the conservatives have not.

Mr. Roosevelt is quoted as "delighted" with the outcome. "An honest man and a game fighter," was his comment on Senator Tillman yesterday morning as reported from a near source. "Which side of how soon he would be going to the White House, Senator Tillman humorously parried the question. Things are plainly working toward one more curious result in a reconciliation between the president and his bitterest foe."

The republican conservatives state frankly that they will fight to the best of their ability, and to the end of their resources. They declare that principles more important than party are at stake, the independence of the Senate and the protection of property. They will apparently be their slogan. They claim that their position has been very greatly misapprehended and that when their big lawyers, Senator Spooner and Senator Chandler, have had an opportunity to argue their case the public will form an entirely new idea.

The democrats have laid down no program as yet. They have largely spent the day in jubilantly shaking hands with themselves. Senator Tillman will report the Hepburn bill on Monday, but had not decided yesterday whether to make an oral or a written report. Senator Foraker will speak on the rate question on Wednesday, but it is not likely that the real debate will begin sooner than two weeks from now. The statehood bill must first be disposed of, and while the senators of both parties are charged full of the railroad rate question they will require time to get their speeches into final form for what seems likely to be one of the most memorable debates in many years.

The democrats who control the situation, the administration, and the defeated conservative republicans plainly occupy three distinct positions, in spite of the fact that democratic support for the Hepburn bill has contributed to a victory for the administration. The democrats are not opposed to the institution of de novo proceedings in court. They say that they do not see how court proceedings could be other than de novo, and that the court must have the right to go into each case to the extent which it sees fit. Opposition to precisely this view was the ground upon which the administration rejected the court review amendment proposed by the conservative republicans. But the fact that the democrats desire to balance the power of the court by limiting the court's authority to grant temporary injunctions apparently paves the way for an agreement between them and the administration. The conservative republicans will fight any effort to limit the restraining powers of the court.

The democrats are not satisfied with the Hepburn bill as it stands, and will endeavor to amend it in several particulars. The most important of these will be their effort to strike out the words "fairly remunerative" which refer to the commission's orders. It is claimed that this would permit an independent, overcapitalized and ill-managed railroad to pay dividends by undue extraction from the public.

It is said that these words, to which the president agreed, were suggested to him by Senator Knox, and that he afterward repented of having agreed to them off-hand, and that his subsequent readiness to agree to a court review proposition was due to a fear that he caught a second time in the same way. This story comes from a radical rafter outside of Congress, but has some apparent authority behind it. On the other hand, the democratic lawyers are not fully convinced that the exact wording of the Hepburn bill provides that carrier and shipper shall have their full rights in court, and they propose to make some minor changes for this purpose, even if they do not agree with the conservative republicans to a specific court review amendment.

As the strength of the three factions is further scrutinized it becomes apparent that the administration-democrats combine controls the situation, though the conservative republicans have a good fighting nucleus. They claim 29 republicans and about 10 democrats, which would give them control, but in the present situation, both of these figures are exaggerated.

Yesterday was pension day in the House and after passing 413 pension bills the House adjourned.

COX GOT $7,000,000 A YEAR?

Statement Made by the Boss' Chief Lieutenant.

Cincinnati, Feb. 26.—"The money was given to me. I got it." These were the words used by County Treasurer R. K. Hynicka, long the principal lieutenant of the noted Republican leader, Geo. B. Cox, in a frank statement before the legislative committee that has commenced its investigation of charges of corruption in Cincinnati and Hamilton county affairs made during the last campaign. Treasurer Hynicka was put on the stand following the testimony of several bankers that they had paid money to officials of the county treasury, in return for having deposited at their banks county funds, on which no interest was paid. Treasurer Hynicka said: "Mr. Schott, the cashier of my office, has handed me from time to time gratuities from banks."

Hynicka said the "gratuities" for the first year of his term were from $13,000 to $20,000. He didn't know whether Schott got any money in addition or not. He has received as gratuities within the past two months about $7,000.

"Did you keep the money yourself or divide it with someone else?" "I kept it."

Hynicka said the Cox collections averaged about $7,000,000 a year. Cliff Roberts, deputy county treasurer, testified that he regularly visited a number of banks and received from them, without asking a question, sealed envelopes, which envelopes he delivered to Cashier Schott, who had sent him to the banks. He said he did not know what the envelopes contained. The inquirers sought in vain to draw from him the admission that the envelopes contained money or "gratuities."

KILLED UNCLE WHO ABUSED

Seventeen-Year-Old Gotham Wife Stabs Relative

Also Meant to Kill Aunt, Whom She Accuses of Being a Party to the Wrongdoing of Her Murdered Husband.

New York, Feb. 26.—Mrs. Josephine Terranova, a 17-year-old Italian girl, confessed Saturday that she killed her uncle, Gaetano Riggio, and attempted to kill his wife, declaring that she was justified. When arrested she told the police that her uncle had taken advantage of her innocence, with his wife's knowledge, and had so mistreated her that on the day of her wedding, two months ago, her young husband left her.

Suffering from the jeers of her friends, she said, she put on all her wedding finery, went to her uncle's room, fired two shots and missed, then fatally stabbed him and wounded her aunt. She escaped arrest until Saturday, when she was found by the police a few hours after her uncle died at a hospital.

Mrs. Terranova said that she intended to kill Mrs. Riggio, her aunt, because she knew of the relations between her and Riggio. She charged further that her aunt had been partially responsible for Riggio's actions.

The girl said that she had escaped arrest by continually riding on elevated and surface cars, and that she had little food and almost no sleep for two days. Becoming exhausted she went to her mother's house where the police arrested her. She made her home at the Riggio's because her mother was unable to support her.

A new revolver was found in her hand bag.

A Fortunate Young Lady.

Miss Jennie Martin, 176 North Paul Street, Rochester, N. Y., says: "I suffered long from kidney complaints—back aches, and their kindred ailments failed to afford me relief. A friend induced me to try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y. The effect was wonderful. By the time I had taken two bottles I was completely cured and have had no trouble since."

MILLION LOSS BY FIRE

Railroad Property at Moncton, N. B., Destroyed

IN FIRE SATURDAY NIGHT

Flames Spread Quickly—Private Coach of Earl Grey Burned Up—Greatest Fire New Brunswick Has Suffered Since 1877.

Moncton, N. B., Feb. 26.—The Canadian government sustained a loss of $1,000,000 by a fire which destroyed practically the entire plant of the Intercolonial railway at Moncton, Saturday night and early yesterday morning. The financial loss is the greatest caused by a fire in New Brunswick since the conflagration which obliterated the business section of St. John in 1877. The Intercolonial railway, which extends from Montreal on the west to Halifax on the east and St. John on the south, is owned by the government, and the headquarters of the entire system are located in Moncton. More than 1,000 persons are thrown out of employment, and the officials of the railroad state that the system will be badly hampered for many months as the result of the fire.

Over 100 passenger coaches and freight cars in the shops and on sidings, and a large amount of costly machinery in the various buildings, were destroyed. One of the coaches burned was the private car of Earl Grey, governor-general of Canada. The station and the large general offices of the railroad were saved.

Slander Action of Wilson Against Clement Comes on This Week.

Burlington, Feb. 26.—Percival W. Clement, millionaire candidate for governor, will be defendant this week in an action brought to recover damages of $50,000 for alleged slander, the plaintiff being Samuel D. Wilson of Cambridge, Mass., a man employed by Vermont officials under the prohibitory law to ferret out illegal saloons.

While in pursuit of this duty, Wilson shot and killed Edward Goshue, but was later acquitted of a charge of murder on the ground of self-defense.

Wilson alleges that Clement in the political campaign called him a murderer accused him of killing Goshue.

The case has been once tried and a verdict rendered for Clement, but a new trial was ordered on the ground that some of the jurymen were disqualified.

OLD ST. JOHNSBURY CHURCH OBSERVES AN ANNIVERSARY.

It Is 25 Years Since Its Present Building Was Dedicated, and the Event Was Commemorated by Exercises There Yesterday.

St. Johnsbury, Feb. 26.—A service commemorating the 25th anniversary of the dedication of the present building was held at the North Church, Congregational, yesterday morning. The pastor preached a sermon appropriate to the occasion, and the choir sang the same anthems that were used at the dedication Feb. 24, 1881.

The North Congregational Church was organized April 7, 1825, being then composed of a colony of 19 members, set off from the first church in town, then worshipping in the old town house, which stood on a hill one-half mile west of the village of St. Johnsbury Centre. The church has the largest membership of any Protestant church in town, the membership being 474. The societies of the church are the Women's Association and the Men's Club, among the adults; and among the younger people are the Missionary Round Table and the Pioneer Band.

A new feature of the services is soon to be a vested choir, which has been organized and directed by Edward Kingsley, superintendent of music in the public schools.

TRUSTEE MORRIS RESIGNS.

Could Not Keep Track of Mutual Life Business While in Philadelphia.

New York, Feb. 26.—Edwingham R. Morris of Philadelphia announced Saturday that he had resigned his trusteeship in the Mutual Life insurance company of New York. Mr. Morris gives as his reason for his resignation the pressure of business. He is the president of the Girard Trust company of Philadelphia. Mr. Morris, in explaining his resignation, said: "I resigned as a trustee of the Mutual Life because it proved to be impracticable for me as a nonresident to keep in touch with the details of the management of a corporation having its office in New York, and whose policy must necessarily be adapted to varying conditions from day to day. I remained in the board after the recent deplorable events only long enough to vote in support of every measure advocated by the Trustee's investigating committee."

"To show how impossible it is for any one living at a distance to know really much about such a company as the Mutual, until the names were brought out in the investigation, I did not know even of the existence of Mr. Thebaud, Mr. Raymond, Mr. Fields or Mr. Hamilton. Their names were never mentioned at any board meeting, and I never heard of them or of their relation to the company."

Judge Ferguson at Greensboro, N. C., refused Saturday to make permanent the temporary receivership granted a few days ago in the case of the Mutual Reserve Life association, a New York corporation, upon the application of J. W. Blackwell of Durham.
